Texas A&M University has a strong institutional commitment to the principle of diversity in all areas. In that spirit, it is important that all qualified individuals be granted admission to Texas A&M University and any of its sponsored programs without regard to subgroup, class or stereotype. You can welcome all individuals to your classes and any affiliated programs of your department or college by including the following statements on all publications and notices.

For your syllabi:

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal anti-discrimination statute that provides comprehensive civil rights protection for persons with disabilities. Among other things, this legislation requires that all students with disabilities be guaranteed a learning environment that provides for reasonable accommodation of their disabilities. If you believe you have a disability requiring an accommodation, please contact your campus' disability services office.

For sponsored activities and programs open to the public, employees or students:

Texas A&M University is committed to providing access and reasonable accommodation in its services, programs, activities, education and employment for individuals with disabilities. Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) accommodations will be made in accordance with the law.
